

Chemtrails By Sage Ruiz

N ot to be confused with "contrails", chemtrails are just a tiny drop in the conspiracy surrounding them. Contrails, short for condensation trail, are trails of condensation made by a high flying aircraft's jets, and dissipate relatively quickly, while chemtrails stay in the sky for hours at a time, and the contents is unknown.

Believers of this conspiracy have numerous theories pertaining to the purpose of these trails. A few of these include psychological manipulation, weather modification, and biological or chemical warfare. This theory was actually aggravated by the American government. In 1996, the United States Air Force (USAF) published a report titled "Weather as a Force Multiplier: Owning the Weather in 2025" about their experimentations with weather modification and manipulation; the conspiracies began to circulate shortly after that.

Of course, the USAF made a public statement claiming that the report was speaking in a fictitious manner, and that the conspiracy was a hoax. Obviously people didn't believe that, and as more and more chem trail began appearing, more and more people speculated about whether or not they were the governments attempt at weather manipulation. Or maybe something more sinister.

Some people believe that chemtrails are actually meant to make American citizens sick, or more likely to become sick. The biggest source of income for the United States is the pharmaceutical industry, making this theory one of the easiest to get behind in my opinion, especially when you take into consideration the fact that there has been a 22% increase in prescription medication from the years 2001-2010, with one in five adults taking at least one psychotropic medication as of 2012.

The United States government has also already proven that money means more to them than actually healing their patients. Think of chemotherapy for cancer patients, NRTI's for people who are HIV/AIDS positive, and the increase of children under the age of 6 being prescribed medication for ADHD and ADD.

Our physical and mental health may not be the only thing they're targeting though; some believers think that the government is experimenting with mind control, similar to MKUltra in the 70's.

<https://www.cia.gov/library/readingroom/search/site/mk%20ultra>

The link above redirects to the official CIA page concerning project MKUltra. So the idea isn't farfetched.

I guess we'll just have to wait and find out if the government gets busted again or not.